DOWNLOADING FULL EPISODES

Q: I've read that full episodes are available for download. Is this true?

A: Yes. Selected NBC shows are currently available through NBC Direct; a service that allows users to download full episodes to their Windows-based PCs. Support for Apple and Linux systems will be coming in early 2008.

Q: What do I need in order start downloading full episodes?

A: We recommend the following specifications to ensure that you have a good viewing experience:

| Feature | Recommended | Minimum |
|----------------------|--|------------------|
| Operating System*: | Microsoft Windows Vista and Microsoft Windows XP(any version, including MCE) with Service Pack 2 installed | |

| Other Software: | Microsoft Windows Media Player version 10 or higher Microsoft .NET 2.0 or higher Flash 8+ | |

All Microsoft Windows Vista and XP users (all editions)

Switching between different shows during video playback "freezes" the application. A fix is being developed and will be available shortly.

The Open Case Media Agent powering the NBC Direct service "spikes" the CPU usage and does not decrease. A partial solution was rolled out with the 11/20/2007 update (build #5.2.0.1221). A more advanced solution is being developed and will be available shortly.

Content isn't removed properly if the user deletes a clip that's active in the NBC Direct player. A fix is being developed.

If the video you are watching is still downloading by the time the first ad break is reached, then it will start from the beginning. Please allow the download to complete first before resuming the video.

Windows XP users with Windows Media Player 10, if you're only getting ads, please visit the following page to apply a Microsoft patch that will restore proper video playback:

RESOLVED ISSUES

Microsoft Windows Vista users (all editions)

There was a Microsoft Vista bug that prevented the NBC Direct player from functioning properly. A fix was rolled out with the 12/14/2007 update (build #5.2.0.1244) and requires new and existing users to apply a patch to complete the update.

Microsoft Windows XP users (all editions) running Microsoft Windows Media Player 11

There was a known bug that affected proper playback of downloaded video components. A required fix was rolled out with the 11/20/2007 update (build #5.2.0.1221) which will require you to restart the service to complete the installation. If you're are still having issues, please click here to apply the necessary fix.

The MY VIDEOS tab only allowed the display of 10 downloaded videos. A fix was rolled out with the 11/20/2007 update (build #5.2.0.1221).
